

Anesthesia Technician

University of Florida College of Veterinary Medicine

The University Of Florida College Of Veterinary Medicine is currently seeking qualified, highly motivated individuals to join our Anesthesia and Pain Management Team.

This position is responsible for administering anesthetics to veterinary patients, including but not limited to, domestics, exotics, and large animals. Individuals will also assist in the instruction of veterinary students, fellow technicians, and other personnel in veterinary fields, in the administration of anesthetics and the use of anesthesia equipment.

Basic requirements include:

Graduation from an accredited American Veterinary Medical Association program for veterinary technology, and/or met requirements for certification in the state of Florida; or a high school degree and four years of veterinary work experience. A minimum of two years practical experience in an academic hospital environment, or four years of appropriate education, and practical experience in a private practice.

If Interested please apply at <https://jobs.ufl.edu>